REQUEST FOR PROPOSALS (RFP)

No. N00061838C

SECTION 1. ANNOUNCEMENT OF OPPORTUNITY

The U.S. National Science Foundation (NSF) National Solar Observatory (NSO) is seeking proposals from qualified web design and development firms to lead a comprehensive redesign of its website in active collaboration with the NSO team.

This initiative is a full structural overhaul—not a visual refresh. The current website no longer meets the needs of its primary audiences and has lost effectiveness as a central platform for scientific communication, data access, and public engagement.

We are looking for a partner who can help us rebuild the site as a modern, user-centered platform aligned with NSO's mission, vision, and reputation. The selected partner must be able to work collaboratively with NSO Leadership, IT Department, EPO/C Department, and others, to create a sustainable website that NSO can maintain after launch.

PURPOSE

The current NSO website faces critical challenges:

- Users cannot reliably find information or scientific data
- Content is outdated, inconsistent, and lacks clear ownership
- The site fails to serve its primary audiences—i.e., scientists and the public
- Staff are increasingly relying on external tools instead of the website

Bottom line: The website is no longer functioning as a trusted, central resource for NSO's audiences — i.e., scientific, educational, operational, and general public.

NSO expects this redesign to address both the user experience and the long-term operating model for keeping the website current, accurate, secure, accessible, and useful.

PROJECT OBJECTIVES

The redesigned website should deliver:

- Clear audience pathways (scientists, public, staff)
- Intuitive navigation (target: ≤3 clicks to key content)
- Trusted, current content with defined ownership
- Centralized access to scientific data and tools
- A modern, professional design aligned with NSO's brand
- Improved performance, accessibility, and maintainability

- A clear operating model for content ownership, review, publishing, archiving, and retirement
- A realistic content migration approach that separates contractor-led migration support from NSO-owned content decisions and approvals
- A platform that can be administered by NSO IT, and maintained by designated NSO content owners without excessive vendor dependency

SCHEDULE

Total estimated duration: 8–12 months, depending on content migration scope, stakeholder availability, platform selection, and integration complexity.

The Work shall be subdivided into six (6) Phases with an optional support phase, as shown in Table 1 below.

Phase	Months	Milestone Payment
Phase 0: Alignment, Project Planning & Contracting	0-1
Phase 1: Discovery & Information Architecture	1-2
Phase 2: UX/UI Design & Prototyping	2-3
Phase 3: Development & Implementation	3-4
Phase 4: Content Migration & Cleanup	1-2
Phase 5: Launch & Training	1-2
Phase 6: Ongoing Support (optional)
